Peer website review for Leon Chea.

Today in class I reviewed Leon's website. I really enjoyed that his website was responsive. I thought that the CSS he made for the project website was very nice. I thought that the type based logo was very versatile and I could easily envision it being used in print as well web. The project page looked modern in full-size mode and as a smaller screen. The fonts that he chose were readable and look great with the layout. Leon and I are both converting our html layouts to PHP still. I did not find any problems with his coding.
